

Taking Community Health Needs Assessments to the Next Level

CASE STUDY | JUNE 2019

HEALTHYBR: BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA

HealthyBR was formally established in 2010 as part of a governmental effort to address four specific health challenges in East Baton Rouge Parish: obesity, overuse of hospital emergency departments, mental and behavioral health and HIV/sexually transmitted infections. The leadership includes the CEOs of the area’s five competing hospitals, as well as those of public, private, government and nonprofit organizations committed to collaborating on community health initiatives. To maximize their impact, the five hospitals participating in HealthyBR agreed to conduct joint community health needs assessments (CHNA) and implementation plans beginning in 2015.

Each HealthyBR member has a voice and vote in identifying top priorities and significant community health needs during the CHNA process. Once community needs have been identified, HealthyBR members agree as a group on mutually reinforcing activities and align measures for reporting progress. In 2015, members identified obesity, HIV/AIDS, mental health and emergency department overuse as priority areas. Prior to the 2018 CHNA process, each organization committed to looking at issues through a social determinant of health lens as well as a ZIP code disparity lens.

The Mayor’s office provides staffing for the collaborative, which is vital for sustainability.
